It is offered rarely at some online casinos and allows gamblers to play games without making any form of real cash deposit. Even if you don't have to make any sort of deposit, any potential winnings resulting from the use of a no deposit bonus are subject to wagering requirements before any withdrawal can be made. What are Wagering Requirements? Wagering requirements or playthrough requirements are the casinos' safety measure that you won't just claim the bonus and go to another casino to repeat the action. For example, if you see the wagering requirement formulated as 10x and you got a $10 no deposit bonus, it means $10 \times 10 = $100$ which have to be wagered before you are eligible to withdraw any winnings. How can I claim a No Deposit Bonus? A no deposit bonus can be claimed in three ways.

Firstly, you have to be a new player registering an account and have no prior account at the specific online casino. Also, you need to be sure that the specific website has a no deposit bonus available. You can get a no deposit bonus by either providing a unique bonus code, you can request it via live chat if the casino has this policy, or, the no deposit bonus will be automatically assigned to the new player account.

Are Free Spins a No Deposit Bonus? Yes and no. Even if often confused, Free Spins are awarded only on specific slots and any winnings will have to be wagered according to the playthrough requirements unless the online casino specifies otherwise. Free Spins are part of the no deposit family as they require no cash deposit, but the family also includes free cash bonuses. A no deposit bonus can usually be used as the player pleases, unless stated otherwise. Can I Withdraw a No Deposit Bonus? A bonus can either be cashable or non-cashable meaning that you can withdraw it after you completed the playthrough requirements or you can use it only to play the game and it will not add up to the wins. The no deposit bonus should also not be confused with free trial offers which are just demo cash and can't be withdrawn.

Is a No Deposit Bonus Worth Claiming? Definitely yes! You basically get free money to play your favourite games while having the potential to claim real cash wins if you complete the wagering requirements. Even if you don't have any wins or you don't complete the playthrough requirements, you won't lose anything. Can I use different deposit methods to claim no deposit bonuses or free spins?

Since you won't be making any deposits, payment methods aren't that important here. Usually, no deposit bonuses are available for multiple withdrawal options unless stated otherwise by the casino. Debit cards are generally the preferred payment method when claiming and withdrawing bonus-related funds, and e-wallets such as Neteller or Skrill are sometimes banned by casinos. Can I win real money using free spins? Yes, as long as you read the Terms and Conditions and make sure to follow them completely, from the games you play to the bets you make, to the wagering requirements and max cashout, then you can win real money and also withdraw it. Can I claim no deposit bonuses with a mobile device? Unless it's a super rare case in which you've found one of the last non-mobile casinos, then you can do whatever you want on a mobile device, including claiming no deposit bonuses. If you can do it on a laptop or desktop system, then it's also possible on a mobile device, even encouraged. Do no deposit bonuses apply only to slots? No deposit free spins bonuses apply solely to slots, but no deposit free cash bonuses can theoretically work on any kind of online casino game. Make sure to read the terms and conditions of every bonus to see exactly what games the bonus works with. Some might work just on slots, others on live dealer games, and some might not be limiting at all.
